NORTH SQUARE

Growth Opportunities ETF

TICKER: NSIG

Active large-cap growth investing, informed by global research.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The investment objective of the North Square Growth Opportunities ETF is to achieve medium to long-term capital growth.

PRINCIPAL STRATEGIES

The fund aims/seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing primarily in U.S. large-capitalization companies with above-average growth potential, drawn from a globally researched opportunity set.

REASONS TO CONSIDER

A global perspective. The research framework of a portfolio manager who has managed global growth equities for more than a decade and brings his global perspective to evaluating large US companies that are often competing on the global stage.

A broad large-cap universe. The Fund invests across the Russell 1000® Growth Index range —a wider opportunity set than the S&P 500® Index—with up to 20% of net assets available for non-US equities.

Active management at a competitive cost. A 38 basis point expense ratio that places the Fund among the lowest-cost active large-growth ETFs available.

INVESTMENT APPROACH

- Builds around core structural trends shaping the future: artificial intelligence, cloud computing, drug research, factory automation, advanced mobility.
- Identifies “companies not stocks”: those with compelling products, attractive business models, and large and expanding addressable markets.
- Applies fundamental analysis to evaluate growth durability, capital allocation, and execution risk—seeks “growth at a reasonable cost.”
- Concentrates the portfolio in highest-conviction names while maintaining diversification across sectors.
- Draws on Azimut’s global equity research infrastructure to inform sector and thematic views.
- Sells when growth thesis deteriorates, valuation becomes unsupportable, or a more compelling opportunity emerges.
